Time and tide wait for no man

Once upon a time, a boy called Ben who lived in a village. Ben was very lazy. He didn't like to study hard, just wanted to play.

One day, when Ben was going to a park to play, he saw an old construction worker. Ben was very curious so he rushed over and asked the old construction worker.

Ben queried politely, 'Hello! Do you enjoy being a construction worker?'

'No!' the construction worker replied tiredly. 'This job is really hard for me.'

'Why do you have to work so hard?', Ben asked.

The old construction worker answered, 'I work so hard because I didn't study well when I was young.'

After that, Ben was scared because he didn't want to work so hard when he grows up.

Ben thought, 'From now on, I will study hard and not be lazy.'

Ben studied very hard and he became a hard-working boy. His parents were satisfied at last.
